Bekkah Marshall is a multi-faceted expert based in Clearwater, Florida. Hailing from a childhood of poverty, it is her upbringing that taught her the power of being strategic. Her triumph over her challenging early years fuels her drive and likelihood to thrive no matter what.

She has over a decade of experience as an Environmental Regulatory Official, Environmental Justice Advocate, Trained Environmental Scientist and a Certified Environmental Health Professional (CEHP). These opportunities highlight her abilities to be technical, scientific and collaborative in creating sustainable solutions.

She holds a B.Sc. in Environmental Science with a concentration in Water Quality & Treatment from the University of South Florida and received dual Graduate Certificates—one in Wetland & Water Resource Management from the University of Florida and another in Government Management from Walden University.

She currently serves as Chief Strategist and Owner of BMPowered Consulting and Services, LLC. She primarily consults on environmental and water assessments and regulatory issues. In addition, her company's Trek With Bek Project allows her to operate as a Trained Environmental Scientist creating systems, eco strategies & solutions for Black Women-Led Scholar, Strategist & Stakeholder Organizations.

As a speaker & instructor she's positioned to present on a range of topics such as Environmental Science Research and Careers, Pan African S.T.E.M. (Science Technology Engineering and Math), Environmental Health and Waterborne Disease Prevention, Sustainability and Climate Change, Environmental Advocacy, and Global Water Security.
